1. The former signal school in Halle-Nietleben (M 52/D 82), was observed from the east, south and west [Redacted] No radar set was seen. South of the main buildings of the signal school, beside and behind a four-story building, were four 20-meter antenna masts irregularly spaced and not interconnected by wires. As far as could be seen, the masts were braced by four wires.

2. Soldiers wearing red-bordered black epaulets and tank insignia, and the trails of tank tracks but no tanks, were seen near the barracks. [Redacted]

a. [Redacted] learn whether there were really radar sets at the Halle-Nietleben airfield as was assumed. According to his report this assumption was unfounded. [Redacted]

b. The airfield is apparently exclusively occupied by army units. The small air force units, which recently have been repeatedly reported, were not seen.
